QUESTION: Addressing Health Disparities and Infectious Diseases in Developing Countries

The General Assembly,

Recognizing that access to healthcare is a universal human right maintaining an adequate standard of living,

Deeply concerned by the fact that poverty exists in developing countries, acting as a burden on the population, depriving them from proper healthcare services,

Acknowledging the spread of infectious diseases such as Malaria, tuberculosis, HIV/AIDS and tropical diseases in developing countries,

Alarmed by the significant health disparities affecting vulnerable populations such as children, pregnant women and the elderly specially in developing countries living at war,

1. Appeals to the international communities and organisations such as UNESCO and Americares, to allocate resources to the developing countries :
 - a) to invest in healthcare infrastructure,
 - b) in terms of equipment and medication, and personnel;
2. Recommends the importation of basic necessities from international donors and bordering countries;
