

COMMUNIQUE

Students planning to proceed for their studies in Australia are hereby informed that visas applications are managed by the Australian Government Department of Home Affairs. Consequently, the Australian High Commission in Mauritius does not process visa applications, including student visas.

All enquiries pertaining to visas applications should be directed to the following Australian High Commission email address:

ahc.portlouis@dfat.gov.au

The Australian High Commission has further noted that currently there is a high global demand for student visas, as many students prepare to commence their studies in Australia. In this context, Mauritian students are encouraged to exercise patience and flexibility while their applications are being processed by the Australian Government Department of Home Affairs.

More information on visas is available on the Australian High Commission website:
