IHE Delft SIDS Scholarship

IHE Delft Institute for Water Education is a UNESCO Category 2 Centre in the Netherlands dedicated to water education, research, and capacity development. Under its Water and Development Partnership Programme, funded by the Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs, IHE Delft offers a limited number of SIDS scholarships for the MSc in Water and Sustainable Development.

2. Students are invited to apply for academic admission to one of IHE Delft's Master's programmes. Eligible candidates from SIDS, including Mauritius, would then be considered for the SIDS scholarship after they have applied and received academic admission.

3. Students should apply to the Master's programme that best fits their background and research interests. IHE Delft offers two relevant options: the one-year MSc Programme in Water and Sustainable Development, which is more practice-oriented, and the two-year Research MSc Programme in Water and Sustainable Development, which is more research-oriented.

2. Additional Information and Mode of Application
